

SURGEONS LOSE FIGHT TO SAVE CHICAGO BABY

Julian Tafel's 6 Days
Of Distressed
Life Ended

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—Baby Julian Tafel's six days of distressed life ended tonight as he reached a crisis in his hoped for convalescence from a delicate intestinal operation performed in expectations of saving him from a death of "mercy."

Growing progressively sicker despite the use of an oxygen tent and the ministrations of a corps of physicians and nurses, the babe died at 6:55 p. m. (CST) in the Danish-American hospital, although three doctors worked over him for a half hour longer before admitting the last vestiges of life had faded.

Born with a colon abnormality which meant death if left uncorrected, the infant underwent the surgery yesterday after his father, Julian Tafel, Sr., finally consented to the operation in response to the entreaties of his wife.

Previously, Tafel had been adamant in his desire to "let nature take its course," deeming death for his son far better than prospects of life as an invalid.

Dr. W. L. Kenny said the father was informed about 6:50 p. m. that his son was "officially alive" but was in imminent danger of death.

Dr. Kenny quoted the sorrowing father as replying:

"I hope so, that's what I've been praying for all day."

Shortly afterward, Dr. Kenny entered the room where Mrs. Eva Tafel lay awaiting news of her son's progress. He told her of the baby's death, and quoted her as replying tearfully:

"It's still hard to take, but maybe it's for the best. It's God's will."

Four physicians had been in almost constant attendance on the tiny patient as he lost strength steadily late today. Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, who performed the operation, Dr. M. S. Petrone, Dr. E. R. Hancock and Dr. Kenny worked feverishly in the room.

In final efforts, Dr. Kenny said, they administered 10 drops of caffeine sodium benzoate and five drops of adrenalin administered under the skin. This was followed by artificial respiration.

Pending preparations for a post mortem examination, Dr. Kenny said he believed the babe had died of uramic poisoning. He explained the infant had given off, through pores, more liquid than the attendants had been able to feed it.

During last night and early morning, little Julian had taken only three and one-half ounces of milk, solutions of water, sugar and whisky were then administered in hopes of sustaining life.

Afflicted with a "bottomless colon," the babe underwent an operation in which an incision was made in his side, above the hip, and the colon led out to drain. Further surgery was planned to correct the abnormality permanently, but the surgeon's immediate problem was to coax life in the babe and build up its strength for the second operation.

ROB MESSENGER

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—A high school messenger was robbed of $1468 today by three men who seized his automobile at a point when he stopped for a traffic light. Two policemen who witnessed the holdup pursued the trio in a commandeered car and fired nine shots before the robbers stole another automobile and escaped.

The messenger, Floyd Hummel, said he was carrying the money from the Provident township high school to a bank in the loop when he was stopped.

PEORIA STRIKE

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 23.—(P)—Settlement of a disagreement over the discharge of three editorial employees involving the Peoria Journal-Transcript and the American Newspaper Guild was announced today by both parties.

Two of the employees resumed connection with the paper.

The trio was discharged a month ago, Guild officials said, to their Guild membership and activities.

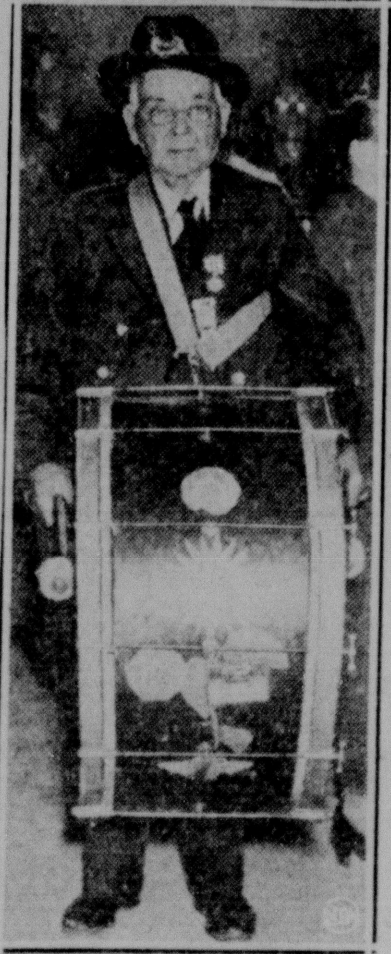

Publisher Cary P. Slane of the newspaper said the discharges were "for cause."

The final details of the agreement between the parties were arranged at a conference this morning. Afterward, Julius H. Klyman of St. Louis, international vice president of the group, termed the agreement "an obvious victory" for his organization.

"Of the three men discharged," Klyman's statement said, "two have returned to work and the third man who was discharged does not wish to return."

Roosevelt Will Confer With His Key Men Today

President Also Looks Into Party Prospects in New York State

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(P)—Leading up to a major political conference tomorrow with key Democratic chieftains, President Roosevelt today looked into party prospects in New York state.

With two old friends from his home county, Mr. Roosevelt surveyed possibilities of swinging the state's 47 electoral votes into the Democratic column. They were Judge John E. Mack, national committeeman for New York, and James Townsend, Dutchess county Democratic chairman. Both are from nearby Poughkeepsie.

The discussions set the stage for tomorrow's gathering of key political advisors. It was expected to touch such vital matters as party finances and strategy and perhaps bring to a head plans for the president's personal participation between October second and November third in the campaign for his reelection.

Of the ten or twelve party leaders scheduled to assemble in the library of Mr. Roosevelt's Hudson river home, these were listed definitely in advance.

Chairman James A. Farley and treasurer W. Forbes Morgan of the Democratic national committee; Vincent Daley, former vice-president of the Democratic state committee; and Senators Byrnes of South Carolina, Robinson of Arkansas and Guffey of Pennsylvania.

The last two are, respectively, Senate majority floor leader and chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee.

Officials here intimated that several other national committee executives might appear, including, possibly, L. W. Robert, Jr., secretary; Charles T. Michelson, publicity director; and Frank Walker, finance committee head.

Mack and Townsend had nothing to say of the state angles of their morning visit to the summer White House. But the latter described the president as "very happy" over reports on Dutchess county, which Mr. Roosevelt lost by more than 5,000 votes in 1932.

Water Shortage In Carlinville Is Alleviated

Residents However, Are Urged to Boil Water
For Several Days

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—(P)—Acting Chief Engineer C. W. Klassen of the state health department said tonight that although the water shortage in Carlinville had been temporarily alleviated, it would be necessary for residents to boil all water for several days as the result of back siphonage of waste into the city mains.

Meanwhile, a crew of 100 CCC workers and local relief employees dug into the bed of Macopin creek, connecting seven holes which sited up most of 7,000,000 gallons of water released from an industrial dam above Carlinville. Their efforts late today had released enough water for normal pressure to be restored, with the flow through the mains about 100,000 gallons a minute.

"The only permanent remedy, however, would be a heavy, steady rain," Klassen said, pointing out that for several days Charleston, Ill., on the Embarras river had been able to keep up only a ten day reserve as deep pockets in the stream tied up water there.

W. J. Downer, a state engineer, was sent to Carlinville today and was in close touch with Klassen who said the department had rushed to the town to supply of chemicals for purification of private wells and cisterns if their use became necessary. If the supply becomes completely depleted, Klassen said a staff to supervise the sterilization of private water sources would be sent to Carlinville.

Landon Addresses Editors, Farmers At Des Moines, Ia.

Nominee Also Has Conference
With Geo. N. Peak
During Day

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 23.—(P)—Gov. Alf M. Landon, during his farm belt campaign for the presidency, today complimented the New Deal's secretary of agriculture, Henry Wallace, for having "done some good things."

Shortly after conferring with John Wallace, uncle of the secretary who said Landon made an "excellent" impression, the Republican nominee addressed a luncheon of Iowa editors and farmers. Facing a crowd of newspapermen and others, he led up to Wallace's name by noting that Iowa had "furnished the nation" with several secretaries of agriculture, including James Wilson and E. T. Meredith.

"You have the present secretary of agriculture, Henry Wallace," Landon continued, and the audience laughed. "I mean that," the candidate said. "He's done some good things. I think he can be highly complimented for taking advantage of the Iowa warehousing act and permitting commodity loans. I took advantage of it in Kansas and submitted it to the legislature and it was adopted."

"I believe now we have laid the foundation for its operation on a national scale. This is another illustration of the benefits of taking advantage of the laboratories of the states."

In his farm speech last night, Landon favored amendment of the federal warehousing act so that grain surpluses could be carried on the farm and credit be made available to the farmer.

Landon's luncheon engagement was one of a busy series of conferences which included discussions of party organization work in Iowa and talks with such visitors as Wallace and George N. Peak, former New Deal official. Tomorrow morning the Kansas leaves at 9:30, (CST) for Minneapolis where, after eight platform appearances equally divided between Iowa and Minnesota, he will discuss the New Deal's reciprocal tariff policies.

CHURCHMEN AND DIPLOMATS MAY SAVE HOSTAGES

Fear Anarchists Will Slaughter 4,000 At Bilbao

St. Jean de Luz, France, Sept. 23.—(P)—Diplomats, churchmen, and a representative of the International Red Cross tonight joined in frantic last minute efforts to save 4,000 hostages from slaughter in the Spanish government-held city of Bilbao.

Fears were expressed that anarchists might massacre all prisoners if the Fascist General Emilio Mola bombarded Bilbao.

M. Junod, an official of the International Red Cross, flew to St. Jean de Luz today from Geneva and conferred with diplomats who yesterday visited the prisoners.

Junod announced he would go to Bilbao Friday to plead with Spanish government leaders to liberate the hostages.

Efforts by Daniel Garcia Mansilla, the Argentine ambassador accredited to Madrid, and other diplomats failed to obtain the consent of the insurgent Burgos Junta to a mass exchange of hostages.

General Mola was reported to have said he would exchange hostages only one by one.

Junod, the diplomats said, will propose that three ships holding 1700 Spanish government prisoners, and prisons holding 2300 more be placed under the authority of the International Red Cross and clearly marked with its emblem.

The French Ambassador M. Herbet, joined in the plea and through the French consul at Bilbao offered to take 50 members of government families to France aboard a warship if the city's leaders would agree to release an equal number of sick hostages. The Bilbao authorities refused.

700 Civil War Veterans Parade In Washington

Thin, Wavering Line Is All
Army of Republic

Washington, Sept. 23.—(P)—A thin, wavering line which is all that is left of the Grand Army of the Republic marched gallantly today under a blazing sun.

Led by their commander-in-chief, Ole Nelson of Slater, Iowa, and the members of his staff in automobiles, less than 700 of the one-time "Boys in Blue" swung along Pennsylvania avenue, where nearly three-quarters of a century ago they and 200,000 others marched for two days before President Andrew Jackson.

To the densely packed crowd of reverent observers and to G. A. R. officials of the national encampment, it was apparent that this remnant of an army that once numbered nearly 3,000,000 soon would march no more.

They said this probably was the last time the famous old avenue from the Capitol to the White House would echo the music of life and drum reminiscent of May 23 and 24, 1865, when General George Slocum led the armies of the Potomac, Tennessee and Georgia composed of boys whose age was less than 21 years.

At headquarters, however, the veterans went into executive session to name a new commander-in-chief and another city in which to meet in 1937.

George Rudolph of Pittsburgh, who "went after 'em with the bayonet at Petersburg," insisted the Grand Army would stay on its feet to the last man.

"As long as we can walk we'll have a national encampment," he said.

"I speak for the youngsters who, like myself, lied to get in the army and wished we were out."

"Only 86," he figured he has "plenty of time yet" to become commander-in-chief.

As if to prove the old warriors' claims of strength, encampment officials said there has been no casualties among those who moved with halting steps along six city blocks in today's parade.

Several veterans broke ranks, however, as heat swelled up from the thronged streets. They climbed into automobiles which rolled along beside the line of march.

For the most part, the old soldiers kept in step, smiled, and waved their hands, hats and canes at the great crowds which filled the curbs and windows to cheer them. Schools and government departments were dismissed for a half day to review the parade.

Behind the aged veterans marched modernly equipped detachments from all branches of the military service.

FASCISTS SET FOR DRIVE ON TOLEDO, MADRID

Confident That Fall Of Both Cities Is Imminent

Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.

Fascist Headquarters, Talavera De La Reina, Sept. 23.—Insurgent commanders poised their forces tonight for the final onslaught on Madrid and Toledo, confident the fall of both cities was imminent.

General Francisco Franco prepared to take Madrid by storm along the highway from Talavera. His well-drilled troops pushed swiftly ahead, almost without opposition from hungry, famished government militiamen.

The Fascist vanguard was reported within 18 miles of the capital's outskirts.

The plan, officers said, was for Franco to strike from the southwest while General Emilio Mola's forces swarmed down from the Guadarrama Mountains in the northwest, forming an arrowhead of fighting men for the final thrust.

Plans for the attack were drawn despite repeated rumors the Madrid government was debating the advisability of surrender. An insurgent radio broadcast said President Manuel Azana wanted to yield but was opposed by Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, who believed there was still reason to resist.

One column advanced down the road to Toledo, following the fall of Torrijos, and was reported to have come within a few miles of the hill-protected government city.

It was trying desperately to reach Toledo in time to save the survivors of 1,700 Fascists who have resisted siege, dynamite and artillery fire in the battered citadel for more than two months.

It was a race between the insurgent army pushing toward the city and government forces attempting a final rally into the ruins to wipe out the remaining Fascists.

A stream of government reinforcements was poured out of Madrid to halt the insurgents' advance on the capital, but the Fascists said the defenders were routed on all fronts after costly opposition.

Far east of the key town of Maqueda, controlling the highway junction between Madrid and Toledo on the Talavera route, the Fascists concentrated on the next important town, Navalcarnero, only about 18 miles from Madrid. Capture of Navalcarnero would throw the government troops back on their defenses near the capital suburbs.

Mola's troops were pushing through the Lozoya River valley, north of Madrid, in an effort to pass government defenses and pave the way for a simultaneous attack from both sides.

Glenn For Senator

Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator, spoke to a Jacksonville gathering last night in words that sounded a climactic note in the present crusade of Republicanism for America, against the New Deal. The sentiments which he presented were fitting for that climax because they came from a heart dedicated to the truth in government, for the welfare of its citizens and by no selfish attempt toward personal attainment.

This latter characteristic of the message he set forth was typical of Mr. Glenn. Scarcely a moment was devoted to a plea for support in his candidacy, but he showed his entire purpose in accepting leadership and its attending responsibility as a fight to preserve American principles by the election of the Prairie governor, Alf M. Landon to the presidency.

One personal pledge was a heartening declaration to a farm community. "If I am returned to the Senate, I shall do my best to see that the American market is preserved for the American farmer."

Throughout his term in the Senate, Mr. Glenn distinguished his service by championing causes seemingly lost in political strife and bickering opposition. Not in one instance did he dodge an issue to keep the political house from crumbling on his head. It is for that firm purpose he is known throughout the nation and it is on that record that he should be returned to the service of his country in November.

To a few hundred "typical Midwesterners," Ex-Senator Glenn seemed last night to hold for them a secure depository for their trust. His sincerity, strength of conviction, common sense, and knowledge of the principles of democratic government were not masked by empty promises and a vague record of past performance.

U. S. Senator Vandenberg, in August of this year, had occasion to refer to the speech made by Senator Glenn in defense of the nomination of revered Chief Justice Hughes. Speaking of Glenn, he said, "I should like to hear that voice again in the upper halls of Congress."

With that utterance, Mr. Vandenberg voiced the battery of a great force—the vote armed public that is the constituency of Otis F. Glenn. A resolute public that will hear that voice once again in those halls, championing the things which have built this great republic, and which they still hold in high enough respect to place in the charge of this statesman who would once again serve the people in the Senate of the United States.

Our Student Population

Jacksonville has in the past ten days become the home of hundreds of young men and women who will remain during the college year. Some of the new residents will spend the greater part of the next four years here; others have returned to the city in which they already are well acquainted, to complete courses begun several years ago. Whether they are new-comers or students already acclimated, Jacksonville extends to them a friendly, hearty greeting. "Make yourselves at home," is the slogan with which the city welcomes its student population from year to year.

The people who live here permanently like students—they see them assemble each fall, and appreciate the college atmosphere that is prevalent nine months of the year. The associations of the towns-people and student population are traditionally pleasant. Perhaps the friendly, wholesome environment the city offers has something to do with the decision of parents to send their boys and girls to Jacksonville to continue their education.

Students are not merely visitors or boarders in this city. They enter the religious and social life of the community with the same zeal they exhibited in their home towns. They are encouraged in activities outside of the class-rooms, being made to feel that they are a part of the community.

Each fall the churches hold receptions for the students. These are informal gatherings, where the young men and women who have been transplanted from home environment may make new friendships, contacts that usually endure the full length of their stay in the city. Churches, clubs and other organizations that make up the civic framework of the city find the students a real help.

Jacksonville, in return for its interest in the young men and women who spend some of the most formative years of their lives here, usually is held in deep affection by the graduates. This is demonstrated from year to year by attendance at homecomings and other events. The returning college students are not strangers—they are former residents.

The Giant's Decision

For 18 years Robert Wadlow of Alton has been growing—not the normal development of most boys his age, but in proportions that have amazed medical science and the public at large. Robert now stands 8 feet, 5½ inches, a stature that rates him as the world's tallest human.

The young giant's parents have always fought against commercializing their son as a freak. Robert is a freak in but one respect, and that is his size. He has the mind and ambitions of a normal 18 year old youth. Both his parents and Robert agreed a few years ago that he should become a lawyer. They were opposed to relying on his size for a livelihood.

But the young giant has been doing a bit of going about this summer. He spent a week at the Illinois State fair, where thousands crowded around an ice cream tent at which he spent most of his time, eager for a glimpse of the world's tallest person. He visited other towns, and was followed by crowds. Robert must have done some serious thinking, as he has decided to turn professional and cash in on his immense size.

His decision is told in a dispatch announcing that he has signed a theatrical contract at a salary of $300 per week, and will begin a tour of eastern states in October.

Robert Wadlow acted wisely. Despite the ambitions of himself and family, he always will be a freak. He couldn't dodge the issue if he wanted to. The public would never permit him to live the hum-drum life of an ordinary man. His size stamps him as a world curiosity, and he has recognized the fact. From now on he probably will devote his full time to exhibiting himself, not because he is a showman at heart, but because nature gave him the physique of a giant.

Fire Prevention Week

From October 4 to 10 Illinois, as well as all other states, will observe Fire Prevention Week. The week was first declared an official national event by President Wilson, and succeeding presidents have followed suit each year.

During the observance of Fire Prevention Week business establishments and individuals will have a splendid opportunity to achieve something in the way of fire prevention. Officials of public safety, insurance companies and representatives of other public and private groups will work to the utmost to make the week a success. But it cannot be a success without public cooperation.

Simple programs have been outlined for observing the week. For example, it is suggested that owners and executives make thorough inspections of their plants to find and eliminate fire hazards. The aid of employees should be enlisted, and the necessity for caution and wisdom of practices that reduce fire hazards should be impressed upon them.

In the matter of home fire prevention, every person can easily do worth while work. Go over your house from basement to attic. Has the heating plant, which will soon be called upon to operate at high capacity, been inspected, and if necessary, repaired? Is electric wiring in first class condition? Are inflammable liquids properly stored? Does household equipment using electricity, gas or gasoline bear the approval of insurance officials? Have you permitted rubbish, old clothing, magazines etc., to accumulate in closets and out of the way corners?

By investigations based on these questions many fires could be prevented. National Fire Prevention Week is what the people of this and other states are willing to make it. The practices of that particular week should be borne in mind and placed in effect during the entire year. America's fire loss then would take a permanent drop.

'Playing Politics With Hunger' Is Charged by G. O. P. Stalwart

By BERTRAND H. SNELL
House of Representatives
Minority Leader

The height of knavery in public life is to make political capital of human suffering and misery.

The New Deal stands indicted on its own record in this respect. President Franklin D. Roosevelt promised that no one should starve during his administration, yet countless thousands walk the streets without employment. New Dealers have put a political price on hunger, and have made relief a football to be kicked around at will by petty party leaders.

In February, 1934, President Roosevelt admonished his relief officials to be "hardboiled" in dealing with local politicians seeking advantage from relief, and promised the backing of the administration 100 per cent, "even if you hit the biggest political boss on the head in carrying out this general program."

This is what the president said. The facts are, however, that newspapers all over the country printed photostatic copies of a letter written by Charles McDonald, leader in the 14th ward in Philadelphia, on March 14, 1936, 10 days before the Pennsylvania primary registrations. That letter, as follows, speaks for itself:

"Contact all houses in your division and get the names of all men on relief, also of those holding WPA jobs. Urge them to register Democratic on March 26 or else lose their jobs."

Recalls Landon on Relief

When Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, was informed that politicians were meddling in relief, he waved it aside by declaring, "I cannot be held responsible for the acts of dumb politicians."

Gov. Alf M. Landon has made his position on relief clear. In his speech accepting the Republican nomination, he declared, "While we propose to follow a policy of economy in government expenditures, those who need relief will get it. We will not take our economies out of the allotments to the unemployed. We will take them out of the hides of the political exploiters. The question is not, as stated by the administration—how much money the American people are willing to spend on relief. The question is, how much waste the American people are willing to stand for in the administration of relief."

Most significant is the stand of the New Deal on politics in relief, and the extent to which Administrator Hopkins has gone in bottling up information regarding it. In Pennsylvania, when a Republican state senatorial investigating committee sought to throw light on the tangled relief affairs in that state, Mr. Hopkins issued an order forbidding any WPA Pennsylvania official to discuss WPA affairs, even in a court of law! This was only last June.

Pennsylvania Picture

The denouement of the Pennsylvania state WPA investigation came when two assistants to the attorney general at Washington went to Harrisburg, the state capital, and obtained an injunction forbidding the Pennsylvania Senate committee "from conducting or attempting to conduct any

Avoid Bleeding Wounds by Keeping Sharp Instruments in Safe Place

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEE
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

When blood pours from a wound in the skin from the nose, or from any of the other orifices of the body, people are likely to become unnecessarily frightened. The first advice to be given to anyone who wants to help under such circumstances is to keep cool.

A great many hemorrhages may be prevented by taking certain precautions. Broken glass and razor blades should be put into a box and not thrown into waste-baskets. Sharp axes and saws, butcher knives, hatchets, chisels, and screwdrivers should be kept where children cannot get them. Tools with sharp edges should be used only by those who know how to handle them.

When using a knife, cut away from the body. Keep butcher knives and other sharp utensils in a special drawer, with all the handles pointing in one direction. If a sharp can opener is used, a jagged edge will not be left on a can. Careful housewives wear gloves when opening tin cans.

Be careful in opening safety pins, or you are liable to receive a puncture wound.

Meat grinders, cream separators, automatic churns, and other electrical devices frequently catch fingers, hair, or other parts of the body with resultant serious wounds.

The bleeding from ordinary wounds can be controlled by pressure with a piece of sterile gauze such as should be available in every family medicine chest.

In case of very severe bleeding, a tourniquet may be applied on the arm or leg just above the place of bleeding. It is not safe, however, as a policeman once recommended in a course on first aid, to wrap a tourniquet around the neck when there is hemorrhage from the scalp.

It is not usually necessary to keep a tourniquet readily available in the home. A suitable one may be made by merely tying a loop in a towel or handkerchief, putting this loop about the arm or leg, and then tightening it sufficiently with a rod of any kind.

When there is bleeding from a tooth socket, following the extraction of a tooth, the hemorrhage can usually be controlled by plugging the socket with sterile gauze, or by applying hot water. If the bleeding continues, it is best consult immediately a competent doctor or dentist, who will apply any of the common styptic drugs to stop the bleeding.

If there is bleeding from a varicose vein of the leg, the person should lie down and elevate the limb as much as possible. Then a clean pad of gauze should be applied, and the area compressed lightly with a bandage.

Senator Holt, on the floor of the United States Senate, denounced the New Deal time and again for its activities. He became so disgusted with what had happened that he refused to attend the national convention which renominated Franklin D. Roosevelt. Holt is now for Governor Landon for the presidency. It is a far cry from the president's own statement against relief in politics to what has actually happened.

HOTTEST SUMMER ON RECORD CHECKS OUT

Autumn Arrives at 1:26 A.M., Ending a Long Period of Torridity

The summer of 1936, hottest on record, checked out at 1:26 o'clock yesterday morning. Autumn entered the picture at that exact moment, bringing promise of cooler weather, although the effects of summer may not wear off for a week or two.

As a final gesture of what he can do, the Weather Man sent the mercury to 93 degrees Tuesday. The past summer established new records in all departments for intense and protracted heat. In Jacksonville the temperature rose above 100 degrees on 35 days, and many of those were consecutive.

Y.M.C.A. PROMOTES MANY PROGRAMS FOR WOMEN DURING YEAR

Included in the activities conducted by the Y.M.C.A. in Jacksonville, which was organized in 1870 is the work among girls and young women of the city. Through the efforts of A. D. Hermann, general secretary of the Y., various groups have been organized and are a definite part of the Y.M.C.A. community program.

School groups have been developed, including the Gra-Y club (for grade school girls) and the Girls' Gra-Y Officers club. In the high school, the girls' group is known as the Tri-Y club. For the young women, the women's volleyball league and the women's softball league have proved to be popular physical activities. In the young people's social and games programs conducted at the Jefferson school each Friday evening during the school year, a large number of girls and young women of the community take an active part.

Leaders of the grade school groups are chosen from students at MacMurray College with cooperation of the Registrar's office. Membership is comprised of practically all girls attending school of the 5th and 6th grades. Leadership of other groups consists of young married women, teachers, and other interested persons.

Many hundreds of girls and women participate in these programs during the year, and because of a definite constructive program outlined and carried on, brings forward a definite character building and club organization plan for the future of the members. An opportunity will be given the citizens of this community in the near future to again contribute to this worthy organization and make possible a continuance of the fine work it is doing for the youths of our city.

Warn Legionnaires To Be Cautious In Asking Further Aid

Gen. Hines, Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, Addresses Convention

Cleveland. (AP)—General Frank T. Hines, U. S. administrator of veterans' affairs, told the American Legion today his bureau contemplated no reduction in veterans' benefits but warned ex-service men to go slowly in seeking additional governmental aid for themselves and their dependents.

"It is my advice that in the consideration of future proposals for the enactment of additional legislation beneficial to veterans and to their dependents," he said, "due recognition be given to existing benefits and care exercised to avoid the possibility of claims of injustice to that group of citizens not falling within the classification of war veterans and their dependents."

Hines addressed the eighteenth annual convention of the Legion, whose host, the Ohio department, had demanded Hines' ouster from the veterans' bureau in a resolution at the state convention, asserting Buckeye veterans had "lost confidence" in him.

"I should, I believe, be our first thought," the administrator continued, "to scrutinize carefully our present structure and, if necessary, take action so as to be assured that benefits now authorized are flowing in full measure and with promptitude to all entitled veterans."

"On the principle of first things first and considering their continuous amendment and development, I believe we may say at this time—some eighteen years after the armistice—veterans entitled because of injury or disease in service and their dependents in case of death, have had authorized reasonably adequate compensation and opportunity of physical care."

Describing the non-disabled veterans as "once more members of the great civilian population," Hines urged Legionnaires to consider before special benefits the general prosperity of the country.

The administrator branded as "without foundation" reports that the bureau planned to reduce veterans' benefits, adding:

"I know of no such plans under consideration at this time. In present experience would indicate the converse to be true."

HENRY STRUCK SAYS
POLITICS COST HIM
STATE HIGHWAY JOB

Henry E. Struck, an engineer in the bridge department of the state division of highways for ten years and a former resident of Jacksonville, has been dismissed from the state service. Formal notice of his dismissal, Struck said, came from F. Lynden Smith, business manager of the department and downstate Democratic campaign manager.

Struck, who is a graduate of Illinois College, regards as significant the fact that his dismissal came after he was expected to turn in five subscriptions to the publication. Truth, which was scheduled to be issued yesterday. Struck was not surprised at his dismissal as he said he had refused to join the Iroquois League months ago and pay a percentage of his salary for political purposes. He also declined to write five letters in the primary campaign for the state administration.

The request for subscriptions to Truth, Struck said, came from Lynden Smith through employees of the department. The subscription was to be turned in on Sept. 15. The note of dismissal said his services would no longer be required after Sept. 19.

IDENTIFY SUSPECT

St. Louis. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wellbacher of Belleville yesterday identified Raymond Lynn, 34, Centralia, Ill., as one of three bandits who obtained $500 from them in a holdup of the Belleville office of the Coca-Cola Bottling Works Sept. 10. Mrs. Wellbacher said she knew him by the likeness of lovebirds which he had tattooed on each hand.

Lynn denied the charge, asserting he was at his home at the time.

Work to Begin on
E. Chambers Street

Spreading of Stone and Oil Scheduled to Start on City-WPA Project

Work of spreading stone chips and oil on East Chambers street from Clay avenue to Brooklyn avenue and thence south to U. S. Route 36, is scheduled to get under way today. The street has been graded preparatory to the further improvements.

The East Chambers street job is a combination of municipal and W.P.A. activities, with the city providing the materials from Motor Fuel Tax funds, and W.P.A. supplying the labor. Fifteen or twenty men will be employed on the job.

When the street work is completed, East Chambers street is expected to carry considerable traffic as a cut-off from the hard road. Large trucks that cannot pass under the Chicago & Alton railroad subway on Morton avenue will be routed over Brooklyn avenue and Chambers street. The material for the project will cost between $900 and $1,000 it was estimated by City Engineer Kenneth Stapleton.

The Myrtle street grading and oiling project is expected to be finished this week if fair weather continues. Jacksonville this summer has put down approximately four miles of gravel streets, in addition to making other street improvements.

DELAY PARLEY ABOUT
RAILROAD CROSSINGS

A conference of engineers relative to improving Wabash railroad crossings in Jacksonville was postponed yesterday until Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Engineers from the Illinois Commerce Commission, the railroad and city, are scheduled to get together at that time at the Wabash passenger station, and discuss a program for leveling crossings that are now said to be in bad condition.

Sheriff Mails Out Notices to 827 Tax Delinquent Owners

Tax Judgment Day Set for Sept. 28; Sale Scheduled for October 5

Following out the statutes of the state, Sheriff Kenneth Woods yesterday mailed out 827 pieces of mail to owners of property listed as delinquent in the tax books, set Sept. 28 as the date the delinquent property will be presented to the court for judgment, and October 5 as the day the delinquent property will be sold.

quent properties will be offered for sale at his office, unless taxes are paid before that date.

The delinquents, said by employees of the sheriff's office to be slightly more than last year, will receive their official notice by registered mail, another procedure required by law. The post office today was busy preparing all of the necessary receipts and return notices. The sheriff is required to obtain a notice of delivery from each person to whom he has sent a delinquent notice.

Although there is no accurate estimate available, employees of the sheriff's office said there will be about 200 of the letters returned to the office as undeliverable.

The state law requires that the sheriff of the county send out delinquent notices at least five days before the sheriff obtains judgment against the property through a court order. The work was speeded up this year in order to give persons who may have neglected to pay their taxes ample time to make arrangements before the sheriff obtains judgment.

The state statute also requires that the sheriff obtain judgment against delinquent property sometime during September, and sets the date of sale as the first Monday following the day when the court orders judgment against the property.

Notices similar to those covering real estate will be sent out to persons who are delinquent in their personal taxes at a later date, the sheriff's office announced yesterday morning. These notices will go only to persons who pay only personal taxes and who hold no real estate.

Delinquent notices on special assessments listed by the city also will be mailed out shortly. The city prepares the list and sends out the notices, but the sheriff is authorized to take judgment against delinquent properties, and to sell these properties if the special assessments are not paid.

In case properties which are delinquent are not sold, they are taken back by the county and the following year's taxes will be added to them.

CONCLUDE ARGUMENTS IN ZIEGLER HEARING

Attorneys for Arthur B. Ziegler and Virginia Ziegler concluded their arguments in a suit to determine property rights yesterday morning before Judge Victor A. Hemphill, and the case has been taken under advisement. The suit grew out of a divorce granted the couple last year.

The court also made an order in the suit of the First State Trust and Savings Bank of Springfield against Arthur Ziegler, seeking to foreclose a mortgage. The order allowed the defendant, Virginia Ziegler, to file an amendment to a motion which sought to modify an order issued Nov. 19, 1935, under which the Ziegler garage was leased. Judge Hemphill set Sept. 30 as the date to hear arguments on the motion.

Mac Says Step Out of the Crowd

fashioned FROM FABRIC

Discriminating men want clothes that are styled and tailored ahead of the regular trend in men's suits. That description exactly fits our new offering of CAPPS' Suits for fall.

It's hard to tell when you buy a suit—whether it contains those "hidden values" that make it a good investment. Is the fabric of good quality—or does it merely look good? Is the styling superficial—or built in to the suit to stay? Does good workmanship extend to the inner construction of the suit where you can't see it?

These are points for which you must depend on the integrity of the maker. They are reasons why the Capps' label means so much in the suit you buy.

Since 1839—almost 100 years—Capps' have been building the kind of quality into clothes that attracts more and more men to the Capps line.

Come in and see our new selection of Capps' Suits for Fall. You'll find outstanding styles and models, a beautiful choice of materials at prices you can afford. P. S.—If you are hard to fit, take advantage of our special measure service.

William B. Lampe To Be Speaker At Rally Services

Plan Meetings at Presbyterian Churches Here
October 4

The Elders' Association of Morgan county has announced that Dr. William B. Lampe of St. Louis will be the speaker at the rally services to be held Sunday, Oct. 4, in Jacksonville. The afternoon meeting will be held at Westminster Presbyterian church, beginning at 3 o'clock. In the evening the meeting will be held in the Northminster Presbyterian church.

Each year it has been the custom of the organization to secure some outstanding speaker to present inspirational messages to the churches of the community. It is a form of rally service for all churches, and the association feels that in this way the laymen share in the responsibility of enriching the spiritual life of the community.

Dr. Lampe spoke in Jacksonville at an evening banquet some time ago, but because of circumstances which prevented the securing of a larger hall, attendance had to be limited. His inspiring message at that time so impressed the group that the association was urged to have him return.

Those who come from a distance, bringing the evening meal, will find accommodations for them at State Street church. Coffee will be provided.

Delegations from the associated churches are expected at both sessions. The president, Clarence Rice, has appointed committees to complete all arrangements for the two assemblies.

Wabash Placed Second Last Year In Indiana Conference

The Little Giants of Wabash college, who will invade Jacksonville this Saturday for a game with Illinois College, placed second to Butler last year in the Indiana College loop, and this year will have 10 men of the team back, along with one sophomore who stepped into a varsity berth.

That information arrived here yesterday at Illinois College as Coach Ray Nussipickel put his men through a long drill in chasing down punts, and perfecting plays. The raggedness which cropped up in the scrimmage with the freshmen the night before caused the Coach to call back some of the freshmen who ripped the varsity line apart, to re-enact under more careful scrutiny, just how they were able to do it.

Wabash will be heavier this year than they were last, when they lost one game to Butler and tied another. The line will average about 174 pounds, and their backfield will average close to 170 pounds.

Pete Vaughan, who has been directed the athletic activities at Wabash for 18 years, will again lead the squad out of its home lair. The game will be the first of the season by both teams, but both teams will be composed of veterans, Illinois College be-

White Hall Presses For League Opener

Will Meet Winchester This Week-end in First Ivy Tilt

White Hall—Waked up by the setback given them by Beardstown, White Hall's football players are getting set this week to turn loose some of their power against Winchester high's Wildcats on Friday afternoon with a lot of zip. The White Hall club, doped at the beginning of the season to finish high up in the standings, is working hard on means of stopping Winchester's fast breaking attack and its finger-tip ball handling.

Actual figures on the weight of the team show that Coach Bruno Bierman has a line that will average 168 pounds, and a backfield that will average 147 pounds. There is one new man in the line, and one new man in the backfield, which makes the team probably one of the "oldest" outfits in the conference.

The game with Winchester will be the conference opener for both teams. Last year Winchester surprised White Hall by scoring two touchdowns and winning by a 13 to 0 margin. Work here this week has been designed to overcome any over-confidence the boys may have worked up about the coming game.

Coach Bierman used Egelkraut, 170, and Wendell, 170, at ends, Daniels, 168, and Erb, 155, at tackles, Norris, 155, and Scheir, 140, guards, and Capt. Marshall, 200, center, in the line against Beardstown. Ahern, 155, and Nichols, 145, tackle and guard, also got into the game. Other prospects for line positions are Lakin, 155, guard, Long, 165, tackle, and Phillips, 150, end.

In the backfield Bierman had Wyatt, 138, quarterback, Robert Dawson, 140, and John King, 150, half-backs, and Dean Fair, 160, fullback, Rhodes, 148, Peters, 133, Hubbard, 135, and Kennedy, 145, are other backfield prospects.

Harvey Allen, one of Hillview's famous twins, is working out at a guard position, Billy McCarthy and Donald Seely are seeking line jobs, and Tommy Nash and Davis Giller are backfield candidates.

Browns Defeat Tigers 10 to 1

Detroit, Sept. 23.—(P)—The St. Louis Browns ended Detroit's 9-game winning streak and spoiled the champion Tigers' final home appearance of the season here today by battering four pitchers for a 10 to 1 victory. Ivy Paul Andrews held the Detroit batsmen to six hits.

Over the season the Tigers defeated the Browns eleven times and lost ten games.

Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe was blasted from the Detroit pitching mound in the first inning as St. Louis pushed six runs across the plate. Vic Sorrell, Roxie Lawson and Red Phillips, who succeeded him, also were hit hard by the Browns whose attack was led by Marland Clift with two doubles and a triple.

Yankees Smother Athletics 12-5

New York, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Yankees won their 100th victory of the season today, blasting a trio of Philadelphia Athletics pitchers for 13 hits and a 12 to 5 victory.

Johnny Broaca went the route for the American League champions, turning in his 12th victory of the year, but was hit hard, the A's getting 12 hits from 13 hits, one of which was Frankie Hayes' homer with a mate on base in the sixth.

George Selkirk hammered out his 18th homer of the season with two on base to account for the Yanks' last three runs in the ninth inning. The Yanks also had two other three-run innings, in the fourth and seventh.

Giants Almost Clinch Pennant

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—(P)—The New York Giants' pitching master, Carl Hubbell, completed the best victory record in the major leagues in two years today by hurling his 16th straight win, a 5 to 4 decision over the Phillies.

The triumph brought the Giants to within an eyelash of the National League pennant, assuring them of at least a tie for the title, and leaving them in a position where one victory for themselves or one defeat for the second-place Cardinals means the flag.

Hubbell's victory streak was the first 16-game run in the big league since Schoolboy Rowe hurled the Tigers into the American League pennant in 1934. It was "King Carl's" 26th win of the season against six defeats.

He was the complete master of the Phils through seven innings, but in the eighth and ninth got into enough trouble to put his streak on the fire until Travis Jackson threw out Jose Gomez for the final out.

The Phils landed on him for three runs in the eighth and Dolph Camilli's homer in the ninth, and had a man on base with only one out in the final frame, to give Hubbell as much trouble keeping on his streak since it began in mid-July.

But the Giants had staked him to a five-run lead through the first seven innings, more than his let-up in the stretch could overcome.

Dick Bartell's double and Jim Rippel's single brought in one run in the first. Mel Ott's triple and Rippel's base hit added another in the third, until Travis Jackson threw out Jose Gomez for the final out.

Moore's single and Rippel's long fly produced two more in the fourth, belting Pete Sivers, the Phils' starting pitcher out of the game. The last run came in the seventh off Orville Jorgens, Gus Mancuso doubling and Burgess Whitehead singling him home.

With the Cardinals idle today, the win boosted the Giants' league lead to five full games over the second-place, and completely eliminated the Chicago Cubs from all mathematical possibility as a contender for the flag they won a year ago.

Indians Divide With White Sox

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Chicago city series between the White Sox and the Cubs will be renewed this year for the first time since 1933, starting next Wednesday.

As soon as the Cubs were officially counted out of the National League race today by the New York Giants' victory over Philadelphia, the Cubs challenged the Sox, who won the last series. The Cubs failed to challenge in 1934 and were busy with the world series against the Detroit Tigers last year.

The first two games will be played at Wrigley Field, the Cub battle ground, with the next three at Comiskey Park. If other action is necessary the best four out of seven series, the games will be played at Wrigley Field.

Senators Whip Red Sox 3 to 2

Washington, Sept. 23.—(P)—A lucky bounce on Ossie Bluege's grounder with the bases loaded in the ninth inning brought Washington a 3 to 2 triumph over Boston here today and sent the Senators into third place in the American League.

The victory was Washington's second straight over the Red Sox.

Boston was off to an early lead, getting one run in the first on an error, a stolen base and a single and pushing across another in the third on a double and a single.

With two out in the ninth, Bluege hit an apparently easy grounder toward third base which took an unexpected bounce just as Infielder Bill Werber reached for it and Chapman tore home with the winning run.

Score:

Boston . . . 101 000 000—2 6 0
Washington . . . 000 010 002—3 8 2

White Sox Will Battle Bruins

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Cleveland Indians divided a doubleheader with Chicago today, burying the White Sox under a 17 to 3 score in the opener and dropping the nightcap, which was called at the end of the sixth inning on account of darkness, 8 to 3.

Bob Feller, 17-year-old pitching sensation, limited the White Sox to seven hits and struck out 10 in the opener. His teammates gave him a lot of help, however, by pounding out 11 runs, including Hal Trosky's 42nd home run of the season, in the seventh inning and driving Vernon Kennedy from the mound.

The White Sox collected five runs in the fourth inning of the nightcap, chasing Mel Harder to the showers, after they already enjoyed a 3 to 1 lead. Luke Appling accounted for two of Chicago's runs when he lined out a home run in the third inning with Zeke Bonura ahead of him.

Score:

Cleveland . . . 300 002 (11) 0x—17 19 1

Jersey Woman is Injured in Fall

Tumbles Down Cellar Steps; Drug Store Employee Injures Hand

Jerseyville—Miss Josie Brokamp, aged resident of Jerseyville, is recovering from injuries sustained Saturday night when she fell down a flight of stairs at her home.

It is understood that, through a mistake, Miss Brokamp opened the door leading into the cellar and fell down the flight of stairs. She was stunned by the fall and was unable to summon help or to move herself for some time. She finally recovered sufficiently to return upstairs but no one knew of her injuries until Sunday morning when Miss Emma Dorsett called at the home and found Miss Brokamp suffering from cuts and bruises occasioned by her accident.

Injures Hand
Miss Armada Heiderschied, an employee of the T. W. Kirby & Son drug store in this city, sustained a painful injury to her right hand Monday afternoon while at her work.

Miss Heiderschied was attempting to remove ice from the ice crusher in the store when the handle was accidentally turned and her right hand was caught in the machine. No bones were broken but several lacerations were suffered.

Enter Tavern
Thieves broke into the Connors tavern on East Arch street some time Monday night and stole a quantity of beer. The exact amount of the loss was not ascertained as bottles were taken from the various cases in the building.

Entrance was gained through one of the doors leading into the alleyway where on which the lock had been broken by the intruder. The robbery was discovered when the place was opened for business Tuesday morning.

Takes Position
Miss Dorothy Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Miller of this city, has accepted a position as secretary in the office of the Jersey County Home Bureau and assumed her duties Monday morning. She was a member of the 1936 graduating class of the Jersey Township High school.

The new Home Advisor for the county, Miss Helen Steers assumed her duties here September 1st, succeeding Mrs. Clyde Butler who was formerly Miss Elsie Ross.

Miss Miller succeeds Mrs. Wayne Young who was before her marriage, Miss Frances Murray.

Miss Frances Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Ware, has returned to her home here from Honolulu where she spent the past six weeks. Enroute to Jerseyville she was the guest of relatives in Denver, Colorado.

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

You're getting the self same whiskey as us!

—and our Family's been distilling 50 odd years

I'll just bet Grandad Wilken's eyes would pop if he was here to see how everybody's so keen for the Wilken Family's own personal recipe! And I just know we're trying like anything to follow out every one of his teachings so as he'd have a right to be real proud of us.

When you come right down to it, William and Tom and me—and I guess all you folks that are so tickled over the mildness and tastiness of The Wilken Family Whiskey—I guess we all have got to hand every bit of the credit to Grandad and Dad. It was Grandad that taught Dad, and Dad that taught us. So there's no getting around it—all we're doing now is watching out to make sure every batch we turn out is made just like Dad said to.

Well there's no fear of us ever slacking up on our care. You'd find the lot of us on the job every day from 6 a. m. till quitting time. It was mighty seldom we ever got off to fish this summer. Well, the creek is all dried up by now anyhow!

Age-Thinned Ranks Of "Boys in Blue" In Annual Parade

March Past White House in Greatly Decreased Numbers to Fife, Drum

Washington, Sept. 23.—Age-thinned ranks of "the Boys in Blue" marched on Pennsylvania Avenue past the White House today, treading slowly but steadily over the same route of their victory parade 71 years ago.

Climaxing the 70th encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic several hundred union veterans of the war between the state took part in the mile long parade which passed a reviewing stand erected directly in front of the executive mansion.

To the accompaniment of the cheers of thousands, the aged veterans, some in smartly kept formation, some not bothering to keep step at all, moved down with their battle flags lifted aloft.

Their own fife and drum corps beat a continuous tattoo.

Many of those too infirm to march rode in automobiles.

The strains of The Battle Hymn of the Republic and Marching Through Georgia mingled with the martial airs of military and naval bands and drum and bugle corps.

The extreme heat caused parade marshals to stop the marching veterans at the reviewing stand two blocks short of the end of the parade route but members of G.A.R. Auxiliaries and detachments of soldiers, sailors, marines and World War veterans marched for them to the end.

It has been estimated that the population of England and Wales now totals about 40,350,000.

Hitler Dedicates Troop Standards

Thousands hurled at Russia by Adolf Hitler and the startling report that secret war orders had been issued to millions of Germans gave grim significance to this ceremony, performed by Der Fuehrer at the annual Nazi congress in Nuremberg. Brooks Speaks At Macomb, Ill.

Macomb, Ill., Sept. 23.—(P-C) Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor, asserted in a speech here today that the American farmer "must be protected by rebuilding the tariff walls against the South American, Asiatic and European peasants."

"Unless this is done at once, the American farmer will be ruined," Brooks said. "He cannot and must not compete with the foreign giant living on a starvation standard of living."

He charged that "Congress rendered its authority to the president and gave him the sole power to make trade treaties. He at once lowered the tariff that protected the American farmer from foreign imports."

Otis F. Glenn Charges New Deal Is Failure; Says FDR Repudiated

Hugh Green introduced Representative Schnackenberg as the man who was most responsible for the honest elections bill that finally passed the state legislature after a fight that began a number of years ago.

Mr. Schnackenberg's remarks were confined wholly to the campaign within the state, headed by the vigorous candidacy of C. Wayland Brooks to defeat Gov. Horner.

The permanent registration bill and its history was presented as an integral part of the tax-ridden administration of the governor. Coming into the chief office of the state, Mr. Horner was a graduate of the Kelly-Horn school of politics. Their policies formed his action and policy.

Up until the recent rift between Horner and the Chicago crew, the governor was opposed to the honest elections bill, because of the alleged dishonest voting that was practiced in Chicago wards and was said to be responsible for Democratic victories.

When Nash and Kelly thought they saw the defeat of Horner in the coming election they turned to a "regular" candidate and orphaned Mr. Schnackenberg. Immediately the governor championed the honest vote measure, and by his influence among state legislators, secured its passage.

It is now maintained that more than 250,000 votes will be thrown out in Chicago by the new restrictions.

Mr. Schnackenberg said an election day in Chicago had come to be known as "Resurrection Day," because so many dead men appeared to cast ballots in the registration lists.

He also pointed out that only one third of the three percent sales tax was actually used for relief, that Illinois was collecting more sales tax than any state in the Union, and getting less for their money.

The representative concluded with a tribute to Hugh Green, candidate for reelection, saying that he was a credit to the district and deserving the greatest possible support.

Arthur J. Bidwill, candidate for state auditor, also sketched the situation in Cook county, saying that the Republican organization there was united, working hard and planning for the strongest majority ever given a political party in that area.

He said, concerning the office for which he is a candidate:

"This deplorable condition of the affairs of this office must come to an end, and its affairs must be reorganized, in order to protect, in good many cases the life savings of the depositors. I pledge that if elected State Auditor, I shall earnestly and trustworthily administer the affairs of this office for the well being and benefit of the depositors, and my first move shall be to reduce these exorbitant legal and receivership fees, and shall apply sound business principles in the liquidation of defunct banks so that every dollar saved will be beneficial to the depositors and tax payers."

Harry Montgomery, candidate for Congressman at Large, and a member of the Glenn-Bidwill campaign touring group, made a few brief remarks preceding the address of Mr. Bidwill.

It Is So Different Now!

Yes, those were the "Good Old Days." Would you like to have them back? We don't think you would!

Here's one big advantage of living in these "Stirring Times" even though we do a lot of grumbling about this an' that. (But perhaps it's the little grumbling now and then that has made and kept this nation strong, who knows.)

Anyway, in the old days you didn't have the wonderful selection of merchandise; and

You didn't have stores virtually brought into your very home as is the case every day now—morning and night.

How, you ask, is that done?

Through the medium of the business men's illustrated and displayed announcements, telling you so specifically just what they have that you are needing and wanting, and the prices. In this way the stores and the stocks are brought direct to your home every day.

"Glorifier of Alphabet" Finishes 100th Type

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—Frederic W. Goudy, "the glorifier of the alphabet," has finished his one hundredth type.

It is a new record—and a world record—for the man who, at 40, lost his job, couldn't find another and decided to open a print shop to keep the wolf from the door.

It meant learning a new trade because Frederic W. Goudy in those days didn't know one size of type from another. Today, at 71, he's the world's most famous designer of type, has created more new styles than any other man who ever lived.

YOU'RE READING GOUDY TYPE
Goudy's 100 alphabets condense his closest rivals by 65 or 70. The body of this article, for instance, is set with "Deepdene" type, created by Goudy and named for his home at Marlboro, N. Y. The headline above also is set in a Goudy type.

The new type, as yet unnamed, is finished and ready to be christened. It is to be dedicated to his wife who died a year ago.

"I've made more than 100 styles of type," Goudy explains. "But I only count those that have been put to use. Types that are just drawings don't amount to much."

He's still at work and hasn't any idea of stopping just because he has reached the 100 mark.

His first job as a designer was undertaken when he was a boy in Bloomington, Ill., where his father was superintendent of schools.

"The baker got a new wagon," he explains, "and gave me a dollar to paint his name on it."

"FIRING" PROVED LUCKY
That event didn't determine young Frederic Goudy upon a future career, though. He grew up, tried his hand at paperhanging, bookkeeping and half a dozen other occupations, none of them remotely connected with printing.

Later he married and settled in Chicago. It was there, at 40, that he lost his job—"fired," as he tells it.

"I was the best bookkeeper in the world," he explains drily.

Losing his job turned out to be a fine thing, though Goudy didn't know it then.

The printer who knows too much gets into a rut," he explains. "Because I didn't know the rules I tried experimenting. I had one customer who let me handle any job as I pleased—so long as it didn't cost much. When I found that the materials I wanted couldn't be purchased, I tried making them myself."

But keeping a print shop didn't prove profitable and Goudy went back to bookkeeping. On the side, he continued his interest in type. He drew some designs, sent them to New York, asking if they were worth $5, and was elated when he received a check for that amount. Later he drew another set and received $10 for it.

BECAME HIS OWN BOSS
In 1903 he opened his own printing establishment, calling it the Village Press. "I must have been something of a hypnotist," he says, "because I persuaded a professional matrix cutter to cut type for me from drawings I had made and he didn't charge a cent for it."

Later the Village Press was moved to New York but it went up in flames when the building that housed it, at 19th St. and Fourth Ave., burned.

Goudy went back to designing type and has kept at it pretty much ever since. Ninety per cent of his type faces he has cast since 1911. About 25 of them carry the name "Goudy"—more as a means of identification than anything else.

He has his own press and type foundry at Marlboro, used chiefly for experimental work. Until her death, Mrs. Goudy worked with her husband, setting type, reading proofs and taking charge of book binding.

Wheat Prices Are Off in Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—Despite upturns to new peak prices for wheat today both sides of the Atlantic, wheat in Chicago finished mostly at net losses.

Insufficiency of sustained new general speculative buying to overcome the effects of active selling to realize profits on wheat advances here was evident, notwithstanding Winnipeg estimated today's export purchases of Canadian wheat totaled 1,000,000 bushels. Reactions were in the face of the fact too that Italy entered the market for United States Pacific Coast wheat, taking a full cargo of 185,000 bushels regardless of western marine difficulties.

The chief immediately stimulus for what market upturns came from Australian damage reports, indicating crop conditions in western Australia are the worst since 1914, and that South Australia is also suffering drought.

Chicago wheat futures closed unsteady at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 cent lower, Sept. 1164, Dec. 1154-8, May 1141-4, corn 1 off to 1 up, Sept. 110-1101, Dec. 941-8, May 891, oats unchanged to 1 down, Dec. 424, and rye unchanged to 1 advance, Dec. 624. Provisions results varied from 15 cent setback to a bulge of 22 cents.

Eastern holders of wheat futures were conspicuous sellers every time Chicago December contracts touched $1.16, a new high price record for the season. This price proved to be the day's top, with the close but a trifle above the day's low point, $1.154. Helping the early upward trend of the Chicago market was the fact that domestic mills reported increased demand for flour, with one big bakery concern buying 300,000 barrels.

Community Sales Will Be State Supervised

In order to improve the service offered by the increasing number of community sales and to protect the purchaser from diseased or stolen livestock, Walter W. McLaughlin, Director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, has issued an order placing all community sales under supervision of the Division of Animal Husbandry. The order becomes effective Oct. 1. This order is by no means a reflection on the integrity of many managers of sales who have exerted caution at all times and in some instances have brought legal action against persons disposing of property that had been misappropriated.

Cows in Morgan and Greene County Testing Group Average 531 Pounds of Milk During Month; Poultry Meeting Tonight, Alp Speaker

Oren Nash, tester for the Greene and Morgan Dairy Herd Improvement association, has released figures for August showing that the association average for the month was 531 pounds of milk, 21.9 pounds of butter fat, with 441 cows on test from 26 herds. Forty-seven of the 441 cows were dry. During the month there were no unprofitable cows, and 33 cows produced more than 40 pounds of butter fat.

The official tester compiled an honor roll of owners of herds with more than 25 pounds fat average. This list included Newton Short, L. J. Norton, H. G. Strang & Sons, H. D. Kamm, R. E. Stocker, Cleatus Reynolds, Shackelford & Potts and H. C. Cole. Owners of the five high cows for the month are Newton Short, R. E. Stocker with two cows in the high five, L. J. Norton and H. C. Cole.

Poultry Raisers Will Hold Session Tonight

Morgan county poultry raisers will assemble at 8 o'clock tonight at the Farm Bureau office to hear a discussion by H. H. Alp, of the Illinois College of Agriculture. Mr. Alp will discuss the job of getting the flocks into condition for winter egg production.

Community Sales Will Be State Supervised

In order to improve the service offered by the increasing number of community sales and to protect the purchaser from diseased or stolen livestock, Walter W. McLaughlin, Director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, has issued an order placing all community sales under supervision of the Division of Animal Husbandry. The order becomes effective Oct. 1. This order is by no means a reflection on the integrity of many managers of sales who have exerted caution at all times and in some instances have brought legal action against persons disposing of property that had been misappropriated.

WPA RECREATION PROJECTS EMPLOYEES MEET WITH OFFICIALS

An interesting and instructive meeting was held at the Congregational church Tuesday when employees of the WPA recreation projects met with WPA area officials to discuss plans and program for the next three months.

This meeting was in the nature of a training school and is one of a series to be held three times each month by this group. Meetings of a similar kind are being held over the entire district of twenty counties.

The program was opened with group singing led by J. T. Cook of Springfield and was followed by a brief period of folk dancing. The remainder of the morning session was given over to an outline of recreational activities of interest to communities and was directed by B. T. Garnett of the district staff.

The afternoon session was in charge of Dorothy Rea Carter who gave an interesting talk on "Pre-School Age Children" and the part WPA recreation projects may take to create interest with this group. Special and novelty handicraft was discussed by Ray Spillman of the Morgan county project. Mr. Spillman outlined plans for the building of masks and the construction of attractive Venetian lanterns. Arthur Merstadt of the district staff gave a review on pottery and its construction, giving a demonstration in clay modeling. This is a craft that will be taken up and taught on the project. The afternoon session closed with a discussion on the game of "Touch Football" including rules and how it should be played.

The meeting was in charge of Fred E. Darr, superintendent of the Morgan County WPA Recreation Project. The Scott county delegation was headed by R. E. Bingham, superintendent.

The mother was formerly Miss Ruth Young of this city. The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Young of Hardin avenue, will leave tonight for Mexico to visit Mrs. Kehi and family.

It will require $60,000,000,000 to pay the pensioners of America's past wars.

Patrick (Packy) McFarland,
Member of State Athletic Commission, and Famous
Boxer, Dies at Joliet Home

WAS NEVER BEATEN

Joliet, Ill. (AP)—Patrick (Packy) McFarland, member of the Illinois State Athletic Commission and ranked as one of the greatest lightweight boxers of all time, died today at his home here.

McFarland, who was 48, was attacked by a strange illness, believed by specialists to have been a streptococcal infection localized near the heart, about six weeks ago. For the last several days he had been in a coma.

Members of his family were at the bedside when death occurred. At first McFarland was believed to be suffering from intestinal influenza, and later was examined for typhoid and Malta fever, but the tests were negative. He lost 50 pounds during his illness.

McFarland will be remembered by boxing fans of an older generation as one of the greatest boxers in the ring's history.

He was never beaten and only twice in his brilliant career was he knocked down.

down—by Ray Bronson at New Orleans and by Cyclone Johnny Thompson at Kansas City—fights which McFarland always said were his hardest battles.

A product of Chicago's famous "back of the yards" district and of sturdy Irish stock, McFarland carried into the ring a lightning fast brain. He always was a thoughtful and ahead of opponents and was a master at feinting. His speed and cleverness made him a dominant figure of the lightweight and welterweight divisions from 1904 until 1915.

He did little fighting in Chicago, where boxing at that time was not legalized. He campaigned in surrounding cities and then in New York and San Francisco. In England he met Freddie Welsh, the fight ending in a draw after 25 rounds of furious battling.

McFarland's most famous fights were his two with Welsh—the other ended in a draw in San Francisco—and his 10-round no-decision clash with Mike Gibbons in New York in 1915. Packy had come out of temporary retirement for the match. A great crowd, one of the early "big gates" of the game, saw the battle between the two most clever boxer of the time.

Many scribes believed McFarland had won the match, the last of his career. McFarland carried a knockout punch and put away more than 50 opponents via that route but he was mainly content to outclass his opponents and came through his long campaign without a mark to remind him of many furiously-fought tussles.

Old timers tell the story of how he brooded for days when he was embarrassed by having received a black eye in a bout with Kid Burns in New York.

A friendship brought McFarland sudden wealth in 1908. While training in San Francisco for his fight with Jimmy Britt, whom he knocked out in six rounds, a wealthy oil magnate took a liking to the Chicago youngster. He urged McFarland to invest in prospective oil fields. McFarland turned over his entire purse of $4,000 from the Britt fight and when oil came through, Packy received $200,000.

A resident of Joliet since his retirement from the ring, McFarland was engaged in the contracting and brewing business here for several years and also served as a director of the Joliet National Bank. He was named to the state Athletic Commission in 1933 and was active in Democratic political circles.

Surviving are the widow, Margaret, a son, Patrick, Jr.; three daughters, three brothers and four sisters.

Chairman Hamilton Addresses Women's Forum on GOP Aims

First Concern is "Genuine Welfare of American Men and Women"

New York—(AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, told the Women's Forum in an address prepared for delivery today that his party's platform is first concerned with the "genuine welfare of American men and women."

In a lengthy exposition of the aims of the Republican platform, Hamilton said, "It is the genuine welfare of American men and women with which the platform is first concerned, and it proposes to advance that welfare in very definite and specific ways."

Setting forth his conception of platform writing, he said, "a platform should be a statement of the convictions and the program of the party which drafts it."

"It is designed as an open and public statement of the principles, convictions and program upon which a party seeks the responsibilities of government at the hands of the people."

He emphasized that candidates for public office should not seek election on "personal qualifications alone."

"What we propose," went on Hamilton, "is to make relief both honest and effective!" He quoted the Republican presidential candidate, Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, as asserting that aim months before the Republican national convention met in Cleveland.
